Learn about Maya prehistory and archaeological techniques. On an imposing hill stands Cahal Pech, a prehistoric ceremonial center. Our excavations focus on the final years of the Maya occupation. You will learn about Maya culture prehistory, practice archaeological field techniques, process and identify artifacts.

Costs:
$2100 covers room/board, transportation, and field trips in Belize. Tuition and air flight will vary for each student.

January 4-20, 2015
Pick up a trowel
Map features
Shake a screen
Be part of a team

FOR AN APPLICATION
CONTACT:
Dr. John Douglas
Dept of Anthropology
University of Montana
(406 243-4246)
John.douglas@umontana.edu
(paper application available at Social Science 233)