Professional Ridge Award
in Humanities and Health or Healthcare

Application Deadline: May 15, 2017

The Institute of Health and Humanities announces two $5,000 awards for research and creative works on topics at the intersection of health and/or healthcare and the humanities (includes traditional humanities, arts and social sciences). Qualified University of Montana faculty and staff and local practitioners as described below are encouraged to apply.

Applications related to health equity, narrative medicine, storytelling, end-of-life care options, climate change and health, suicide and community response to suicide, and social determinants of health are particularly encouraged. All relevant topics, however, will be considered. There is a general expectation that the research or creative work will be completed or advanced enough in time for presentation at a Ridge Symposium in Spring, 2018.

Visit the IHH website at hs.um.edu/ihh or email ihh@mso.umt.edu for more information including an application form and Guidelines.

Eligibility:
- University of Montana faculty
- Local practitioners in health/healthcare
- Those with clinical or research appointments at the University of Montana

Contact:
Jan VanRiper, Executive Director, Institute for Health and Humanities
ihh@mso.umt.edu
hs.um.edu/ihh